Guest lecture and seminar series on "PEACE AND INCLUSION IN THE REPUBLIC OF NORTH MACEDONIA"

Much still remains to be done in the Republic of North Macedonia to achieve inclusion through enhanced social cohesion. The OSCE is one of the political actors that work on the ground to reach this goal.

Education is at the centre of any conflict and post-conflict developmental and peacebuilding efforts, and it can address and prevent conflict but also exacerbate and reproduces conflict causes. The way the education system in Macedonia is being reshaped following the peace agreement has led to furthering the ethnic separation and segregation both within the education system and the broader society and thus fuelling rather than addressing the conflict.
