Skye Rothstein

This one-day conference serves to show-case the work of queer mathematicians, as well as providing safer space for networking and exchanging advice and experiences. The scientific program is meant to be accessible to a broad mathematical audience.

While this event aims to focus on being queer in math, everyone is welcome to attend and learn. As some of the topics of discussion may be sensitive, we ask everyone to be kind and respectful and to help us keep this event safe for all participants.
