  - Yes, this will help curriculum development of our university.
  - Yes, this meeting has a lot of contributions to our university and department. We have started to implement QA in our university. We have changed our teaching and learning methods but the assessment method hasn't been altered. We have some problems in doing so because we can only change our assessment method when our university becomes autonomous, which we have been planning to do in the next few years.
  - Yes, I strongly agreed. Of course I could learn many information and experiences from the meeting to upgrade higher education quality. I can share these experiences with my colleague in designing and evaluation of our master programme. This meeting is really a benefit for us.
  - Yes, it is able to contribute not only to the study programme but also to the university's development. I got many benefits from this CHINLONE project such as I learnt many knowledge from development partners how to maintain the quality of teaching and learning.
  - As I mentioned above, in my opinion, CHINLONE project and its meeting could contribute effectively to our programmes, departments and University because CHINLONE understood very well that what we are still lacking to overcome the challenges and issues we faced as HEIs in a developing country.
  - Yes, we came to know how to plan a degree programme and how to manage the teachers' evaluation.

- We got to know that we need to change the duration of intensive and other courses in our programmes. And then we realized we must work on TOT and curriculum review every year. In our university, the unemployment center is lack of availability. And we need the exact linkage labor market demand and supply. According to the discussion, if we do the supplementary efforts, there will be the comprehensive programme for us.

- CHINLONE meeting contributes to my department's development. We now come to realize how to plan curriculum. At first, we didn't know that each programme must have its own goal and we didn't notice that the programme's goal is closely linked to employability. Thanks to the suggestions and advice by EU partners, we now have a clear vision and mission for our own programme.
- Yes, of course. We learnt how to operate the student's evaluation process and how to write degree programmes.

- This meeting greatly contributed to me not only for individual capacity development but also for my department and my university as well. To know well about quality culture is critically important especially for Myanmar. The assignment of WP2 is basically oriented to the understanding of the importance of programme level and its related complex elements. Formerly, we did not understand the critical importance of individual staff (faculty and support) and the related infrastructure with policy matters. Now, we understand more and more and it was mainly due to the work done of CHINLONE.

6. Other comments? (Antal obesvarade = 8)

- It'll be our pleasure if we can discuss about the outcomes of our very first experience of students evaluation process. Thank you.
- In the QA system we are currently running in our university, we are using the standards of ASEAN QA system. We would like to know more about the European QA system in order to improve our existing one.
- I like to suggest you regarding the meeting schedule. The schedule is little bit tight within the short duration. It will be better for us to learn more if the duration can be extended.
- I think that it is a little bit tight schedule. I would like to extend the duration of stays in host countries. It may be two or three days more is prefer.
- Hopefully and honestly, this CHINLONE organized by EU Commission and European Universities and the motivated leadership of CHINLONE team would provide all necessities of MM Universities including YUE to be internationally recognized HEIs to some extent as much as they could during the project period. For those delegates from each selected MM Universities would be trained as both transitional and transformational leader who can change and lead his or her degree programme, and department of each University in near future.

- thank you EU partners and CHINLONE project for sharing your knowledge.
- We will develop our intellectual and critical skills as well as group work skills. And also active participation during the meeting and effective follow- up work will help make the most of these learning opportunities.
- Thank you and hope to do further cooperation with our partners.
- I understand that we need to do many things.
