Both the establishment of a new organization as well as the creation of new value in existing ones are core to the entrepreneurship domain. Understanding their determinants is therefore critical for management scholars and practitioners. In this PDW we provide an opportunity for participants to learn about recent work that focuses on the fonts of entrepreneurship at individual, organizational and institutional levels. We adopt a multidisciplinary approach, highlighting the cross-level interrelations in fostering entrepreneurship. This PDW will be useful to both early career and more experienced researchers to learn about recent developments and future challenges in this domain.
